Sana Krasikov
Thursday, May 17th at 7:30 PM
When the Great Depression hits, Florence Fein leaves Brooklyn College for what appears to be a plum job in Moscow and the promise of love and independence. But once in Russia, she quickly becomes entangled in a country she can't escape. Many years later, Florence's son, Julian, will make the opposite journey, immigrating to the United States. His work in the oil industry takes him on frequent visits to Moscow, and when he learns that Florence's KGB file has been opened, he arranges a business trip to uncover the truth about his mother, and to convince his son, Lenny, who is trying to make his fortune in the new Russia, to return home. What he discovers is both chilling and heartbreaking: an untold story of what happened to a generation of Americans abandoned by their country.

Anything Goes: The Jazz Age
Featuring Original Cover Art for The Great Gatsby - Through July 8th
Wild, hot, roaring, and free, the Jazz Age is immediately identified as the decadent heyday of such heroes as Zelda and Scott Fitzgerald, Ernest Hemingway, Cole Porter, Josephine Baker, e.e. cummings, Langston Hughes and other rebels who would "live it up to write it down" in New York, Paris and the Riviera. The gang's all here in one multimedia exhibition that combines art, literature and music. The giants among the artists of the Twenties were Picasso, Léger, Miro, Gaston Lachaise, Stuart Davis, Florine Stetthamer and Tamara de Lempicka, and such masterworks as James Joyce's Ulysses and F. Scott Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby, which was begun in nearby Great Neck and inspired in part by a painting by Francis Cugat one of the highlights.
