Moody's Upgrades Glen Cove Bond Rating

CITY OF GLEN COVE
MOODY'S HISTORICAL CREDIT RATING TREND
(2015 - 2023)

Glen Cove Credit Ratings Improve Under Mayor Pam Panzenbeck

BY MAUREEN DALY
Glen Cove Mayor Pam Panzenbeck is celebrating the fact that Moody's has once again upgraded the City's credit rating. This is the second consecutive year that Glen Cove has received a rating upgrade.

Moody's is one of the world's best known credit rating agencies. This improved rating signifies that economic prospects have improved. Investors, monitor Moody's ratings of government and corporate bonds.

The improved rating affects Glen Cove when they issue bonds for their capital borrowing needs. The better the Moody's rating, the lower the interest Glen Cove will have to pay when borrowing money. Lower interest rates result in lower costs to residents.

Last year Glen Cove received a rating of "Baa2 with a stable outlook." The new rating is "Baa2 with a positive outlook."

The improved rating to "Positive" is due to the City's reduced fund balance deficit which resulted from improved fiscal budget practices, fiscal discipline and aggressive oversight under the administration of Mayor Panzenbeck, who took office 18 months ago.

Fiscal year 2022 ended with an operating surplus and helped to reduce Glen Cove's deficit by approximately $3.5 million since their high point in 2020.

Huntington's "Historic Documents" on Display for First Time

Town Attorney Deborah Misir welcomes guests to the Historical Documents Exhibit.

BY NIAL FITZGERALD

It was a series of "historic firsts" in Huntington, as Town Clerk Andrew Raia, Town Attorney Deborah Misir, and Town Councilman Dr. Dave Bennardo hosted an exhibit of the "founding documents" of the Town - some dating back to 1653 - over 370 years ago.

The hosts were themselves "historic firsts" for Huntington, as Deborah Misir is the first and only minority-woman Town Attorney on Long Island; and Andrew Raia is the son of the longest-serving Town Clerk of Huntington, his mother Jo-Ann Raia, after whom the historic archives of Huntington are now named.

The historic documents displayed include the 1653 "Old First Purchase" - the Deed from "Rasaoton Sagamore of Matinnicoke" a chief of the Matinecock Native Indians and 23 other Matinecock leaders; to Richard Houlbrouk, Robart Williams and Daniell Whithead - all signed by their "marks" - and made on April 2, 1653.

"These are priceless documents that chronicle our local and national history," stated Deborah Misir. "They have been locked away for centuries, and I want to thank our Town Clerk Andrew Raia and the Town Archivist Anonia Mattheou, for making them public."

The documents were on display at the Soldiers & Sailors Memorial Building for the month of May.

Blakeman in NYC: "Free Daniel Penny"

Blakeman speaking in Manhattan.

BY NOLAN CLEARY

Nassau County Executive Bruce Blakeman traveled to Manhattan to join New York City Council members Vickie Paladino (R-Whitestone) and Robert Holden (D-Ridgewood) in demanding that charges be dismissed for U.S. veteran Daniel Penny.

The 24 year Penny, a resident of Islip, is facing criminal charges after defending himself and others from a violent criminal in a Manhattan subway. Penny was not arrested by police, but was later arrested by "woke" Manhattan District Attorney Alvin Bragg who was under pressure from the anti-white race group BLM to indict Penny.

Penny was charged with "manslaughter" after he and others held 30 year old Jordan Neely in a chokehold on a subway. Neely passed-out and later suffered cardiac arrest and died. Neely had a lengthy criminal record for violent crimes and was threatening and menacing people in the subway car when Penny and the others tried to stop him.

Blakeman was joined by a number of military veterans supporting "Free Daniel Penny" at the event.

"He cared about his fellow subway riders," Blakeman said. "He cared enough to get involved. And isn't that what we all want?"

Penny's arrest sparked outrage around the country, with many considering him a hero. His case attracted the attention of Florida Governor Ron DeSantis who promoted a fundraiser to pay for Penny's legal defense.

A crowd of counter-protestors gathered opposing Blakeman, holding "Justice for Jordan Neely" signs. Several of the Neely supporters became violent and were arrested for violent obstruction.

Bayville Scream Park Owner Guilty in $3.2M Scam

BY CHRIS O'NEILL

The owner of the Bayville Scream Park, Donald Finley, age 61, of Locust Valley, has pleaded guilty to a $3.2 million scam to steal federal Covid funds.

Finley entered his "guilty" plea at a federal Court hearing in Central Islip. He confessed to stealing funds as part of a scheme of the disaster relief fraud and wire fraud connected to small business loans he obtained during the COVID-19 pandemic.

He admitted to receiving $3.2 million in such funds via 29 Paycheck Protection Program loans and the Economic Injury Disaster Loan Program. These funds were meant to help business owners survive the Covid lockdowns and were meant to cover expenses such as payroll, mortgage interest, rent and utilities. The loans were unsecured and on favorable terms. Qualified recipients do not have to repay EIDL-sourced funds.

Finley is accused on lying on his applications, including by massively inflating his payroll.

According to prosecutors, Finley used the money for personal use, including purchasing a luxury home in Nantucket.

Finley faces up to 30 years in prison. He should also to pay back more than $3.2 million in restitution - plus a fine of up to $1.25 million.

Prosecutors said the government will seek forfeiture of all property acquired by Finley as a result of his fraud.

Finley was released on a $500,000 bond, pending his sentencing.

Finley has defrauded other local businesses - including this newspaper - when he took-out ads and then stiffed the newspaper and refused to pay.

He is scheduled to appear for sentencing before U.S. District Judge Joan Azrack on November 8th.

EDITORIAL

CLOSE THE BORDER

America is now experiencing a border crisis without precedent. And it's all driven by politics.

With the suspension of the "Remain in Mexico" policy, and the vastly increased social support network being made available to illegal migrants who gain entry into the United States, over 2 million border-crossers were "caught and released" over the past 12 months into America. Add to that the estimated 650,000 "got-aways" - people who crossed the border illegally and then escaped arrest.

That same number of 2.7 million people are expected to illegally arrive over the next year, and the same the year after that.

Add to that the estimated 1.2 million "legal immigrants" - and you come up with an annual immigration of 3.9 million people.

During the four years of the Biden administration, over 15.5 million immigrants - legal and illegal - are expected to enter the US. That's a population larger than many countries. And it is unsustainable.

The crush of illegal migration is now collapsing the social safety net we have built to serve and protect Americans.

Although the tidal wave of migrants was encouraged by the Democratic Biden administration, many Democratic big-city Mayors are now crying for relief from the human wave. Democrat-run cities like New York, Chicago and Washington, DC, are crying for relief, and instituting states of emergency.

But the solution to the current border crisis is no different from the policies tried again and again before Biden scrapped them:

1) Remain in Mexico

Asylum seekers should be forced to live in Mexico, pending their review and hearing:

2) Country of First Refuge Rule

Require Asylum seekers to claim Asylum only in the "first country" he or she traveled through after leaving the homeland where they face a "reasonable risk of persecution..." Why claim asylum in the US, when Mexico, or Salvador were the first countries to allow the migrants to cross their territory?

These two simple changes - a return to prior US policy - will reduce the incentive to asylum seeking migrants too come to America.

Migrants are rational people - and we need a migration and naturalization service that reflects that reality. People will not come to the US, if it means four years in Mexico, and a denial. And these are hardly "draconian" or "inhumane" remedies.

These two small rule changes - reversion to prior rules - would give great incentive to cut the numbers of opportunistic migrants. We owe it to our country and our future to give it a try.

ENJOY YOUR STUFF, BUT BE PREPARED TO LET IT GO

To the Editor:

One of the perils of life is putting too much value on "stuff." Stuff can be about anything. It can consist of what we have or what we don't have.

Much of life is about our stuff. Our house, cars, things in the house. Things around the house and things in the garage, storage building, barns and more barns. If we work hard, it's possible to accumulate lots of stuff. Often, we have more than we need.

We paint, stain, groom and polish our stuff. Sometimes we put in in cases, drawers, cabinets and even safes. We know how difficult it is to buy and accumulate. Stuff is expensive.

We take pride in our stuff. We admire, adore and feel good about what we have. We remember days when we didn't have much, wanted more and maybe felt poor. It felt good to get a check and even better to put a few dollars in the bank.

Me, me, and I often became our most significant heroes. We applaud ourselves because we did it, whatever it is. It's all good because we know where we could be or what could have been or what even might be if luck, circumstances and health had changed or still might change.

The problem with stuff is that it does change. It fades, erodes, rots, burns, is stolen, or simply becomes worthless. What might have been valuable may have changed. Life is always changing.

If you have a lot of stuff then you have lot to worry about. You can't keep from worrying some.

In time, all of your stuff will belong to someone else. Your land. Your prized possessions. All that you have worked to collect and preserve. Stuff is passed on or gained by someone else. We all die sooner or later and we take nothing with us. All of our stuff is left behind and eventually, sometime down the road of life, everything will end up in a junk or trash pile. Fifty years from now people you have never heard of might sleep in your bed in your house, if your house is still in existence.

There once was a man who had so much stuff that he had to build multiple barns. One day he was self-talking, "I have so much stored up for many years. I'm going to take it easy, eat drink and be merry." Later that day he died. Jesus talked about this guy in one of his stories found in Luke chapter 16. Chances are anyone might identify with the man Jesus talked about if our existence becomes too wrapped up in all of our stuff.

Enjoy your stuff but be prepared to let it all go.

Dr. Glenn Mollette

CORRECTIONS

In last week's article regarding the Town of Oyster Bay suing Frank Flower & Sons to stop the strip-dredging of Mill Neck Creek, we reported that the Town had filed suit. We stand corrected. The Town Board authorized a lawsuit, but the suit has not yet been filed.

In the article titled "Pro Parent Trustees Sweep School Board Elections" in the May 23rd edition we mistakenly identified the top vote-winner in the Locust Valley School Board election. The Candidate with the most votes was actually Holly Gaddy Esteves (1243 votes), narrowly out-polling Lauren Themis (1146). Both won seats on the Board.

Op-Ed: Suffolk Republicans Stand-Up to Block Migrant Influx

BY STEVE LEVY

Suffolk County Republicans stepped up to the plate to announce that they will be hiring counsel to assist the county to prevent New York City Mayor Eric Adams from sending New York City's illegal immigrant arrivals to Suffolk.

New York City officials, including Mayor Adams, proudly virtue-signaled to the leftist progressives in New York how welcoming they were to illegal aliens.

Well, they made their bed; now they have to lie in it. They should not have welcomed all of these tens of thousands of illegal aliens into the city and now complain that they are overwhelmed logistically and financially. They cannot seek to shift this burden onto neighboring counties.

The answer to this problem is not more resources from the federal government or for suburban communities to take in thousands of illegal aliens, but rather for the Biden administration to do one simple thing that could end this problem tomorrow: Re-institute the "Remain in Mexico" policy for asylum seekers.

There is a new game being played by the progressive, open-border advocates, as well as the liberal mainstream media, and even — shockingly — by some

Republican elected officials. The game is to no longer consider illegal immigrants

Steve Levy

"illegal" and instead grant them an air of legal status by simply calling them "asylum seekers." Mayor Adams has done this, as has the Suffolk County executive, and Republican County Legislator Manny Esteban.

If we are now going to claim that any illegal alien who simply utters the words "I'm seeking asylum" has become a legal inhabitant in America, we will have declared America's borders open to billions of people around the world. And we mean BILLIONS. This would mean that any one of China's 1.4 billion people who are living in totalitarian oppression can make it to America's shores and stay here indefinitely by simply saying, "I'm seeking asylum."

And it's not just China. There are billions of people living in authoritarian regimes throughout the world who can do the same thing.

The Trump administration stopped this madness by instituting a Remain in Mexico policy, which meant anyone coming from outside the United States claiming asylum could do so, but had to remain outside of our borders until their petition was deliberated upon.

We know it can take 10 years for these applications to be heard. By now claiming aliens illegally here can be deemed legal by simply claiming asylum, we will allow for a possible doubling of our population within the next decade.

This is not acceptable, and any elected official buying into these Democratic talking points are doing enormous damage.

It's good to see Republicans — at least the majority of them in Suffolk — standing strong. They should ignore the protests coming from the radicals of the left, such as the Suffolk County Progressives and Make the Road New York, who have become cottage industries in supporting illegal immigration.

These groups get government money to help illegal immigrants stay here on Long Island. Some of these lawyers involved make their living out of supporting illegal immigration.

Long Island should not be fooled by these radical groups claiming to be humanitarian. They are not. They are hurting African-Americans, who are looking for employment. They are hurting veterans, who are looking for housing. They are hurting poor Long Islanders, who will be squeezed out due to an overload on our resources. They are hurting American children, who will get less attention from their teachers. They are hurting our elderly, who have longer waits in our emergency rooms.

Kudos to Suffolk Republicans for standing tall. Let's hope we can finally convince the Biden administration to end this nonsense once and for all, and to re-institute the Remain in Mexico policy, rather than overwhelm Long Island because of mistakes made by the president and exacerbated by New York's mayor.

Finance Op-Ed: Change Jobs and Keep Your 401(K)

BY AMAN VERMA

One of the most important questions you face when changing jobs is what to do with the money in your 401(k) plan. Making the wrong move could cost you thousands of dollars or more in taxes, penalties, and lower returns.

1) Consequences of Cashing Out

Let's say you work five years at your current job. For most of those years, you've had the company take a set percentage of your pretax salary and put it into your employer's plan. Now that you're leaving, what should you do?

The first rule of thumb is to leave it alone. Resist the temptation to cash out. The worst thing you can do when leaving a job is to withdraw the money and put it in your bank account. Here's why:

If you decide to have your distribution paid to you, the plan administrator will withhold 20 percent of your total for federal income taxes. So, if you had $100,000 in your account, you're now down to $80,000.

Furthermore, if you're younger than 59 1/2, you'll generally face a 10 percent penalty for early withdrawal come tax time. Now you're down another 10 percent from the top line to $70,000.

In addition, because distributions are taxed as ordinary income, at the end of the year, you'll have to pay the difference between your tax bracket and the 20 percent already taken out. For example, if you're in the 32 percent tax bracket, you'll still owe 12 percent, or $12,000, which lowers the amount of your cash distribution to $58,000. (If your tax bracket is less than 20%, you may qualify for a refund, depending on your overall tax liability for the year compared to what was withheld or paid in estimated taxes for the year.)

But that's not all. You also must pay any applicable state and local taxes. Between taxes and penalties, you could end up with little over half of what you saved, short-changing your retirement savings significantly. Finally, you will miss out on any future tax-deferred growth those assets would have produced had they remained in the retirement plan.

2) What Are the Alternatives?

If your new job offers a retirement plan, the easiest course of action is to roll your account into the new plan. A "rollover" is relatively painless to do. Contact the 401(k)-plan administrator at your previous job, who should have all the necessary forms.

The best way to roll funds over from an old 401(k) plan to a new one is to use a direct transfer. With direct transfer, you never receive a check, you avoid all the taxes and penalties mentioned above, and your savings will continue to grow tax deferred.

If you're not happy with the fund choices your new employer offers, you might opt for a rollover IRA instead of your company's plan. You can then choose from hundreds of funds and have more control over your money. But again, to avoid the withholding hassle, use direct rollovers.

Aman Verma

3) 60-Day Rollover Period

If you have your former employer make the distribution check out to you, the Internal Revenue Service considers this a cash distribution. The check you get will have 20 percent taken out automatically from your vested amount for federal income tax.

But don't panic. You have 60 days to roll over the lump sum (including the 20 percent) to your new employer's plan or into a rollover IRA. Then you won't owe the additional taxes or the 10 percent early withdrawal penalty and, depending on your overall tax liability for the year, you might receive a refund of some or all of the 20% withheld. But keep in mind that in your rollover you will have to make up for the withheld 20% with funds from another source. Otherwise, the withheld amount will be treated as a distribution and subject to any applicable taxes and penalties.

4) Leave It Alone

If your vested account balance in your 401(k) is more than $5,000, you can usually leave it with your former employer's retirement plan. Your balance will keep growing tax-deferred.

However, if you can't leave the money in your former employer's 401(k) and your new job doesn't have a 401(k), your best bet is a direct rollover into an IRA. The same applies if you've decided to go into business for yourself. You can still continue to enjoy tax-deferred growth.

Questions about IRA rollovers? Help is just a phone call away.

Nassau Approves Sands Casino-Resort Project

The Sands Resort – Artist's Image (Courtesy Nassau County)

BY THOMAS NOTHEL

The Nassau County Legislature has overwhelmingly approved County Executive Bruce Blakeman's request allow Las Vegas Sands to develop a $4 billion resort and casino on the 72 acre site that includes the Nassau Coliseum.

The vote of 17-1, approved a 99-year lease agreement that would allow Sands to construct the entertainment, sports and casino complex that Sands had negotiated with the County and State.

"The overwhelming bipartisan approval of lease terms with the Sands by the County Legislature affirms that Nassau County has made the right decision," stated Blakeman.

The only vote against the proposal came from Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton (D-Glen Cove) who voted against the proposal. Legislator Kevan Abrahams (D-Freeport) recused himself, citing a conflict of interest involving the employment of a relative.

Opponents of the proposal, some of whom spoke at the hearing included the Hofstra University Board of Trustees and some residents of Garden City, Uniondale, East Meadow and Hempstead. Most opponents who spoke out were not against developing the site, but opposed the inclusion of the casino.

The proposal still requires an environmental review, zoning approvals from the Town of Hempstead, support from community panels and advisory boards and a state gambling license for the resort/casino development to move forward.

There is a lot of competition for the three State gaming licenses proposed for downstate New York. It is expected Aqueduct racetrack in Queens and Yonkers Raceway will each receive a gaming License. Other proposed locations are Coney Island, Citi Field in Queens, the Bronx and multiple locations In Manhattan.

The Sands Corporation agreement with Nassau County requires the project go forward whether or not it receives a gaming license.

The 99-year lease agreement stipulates that a non-casino development must include up to 500 units of housing, a 200 room hotel branded as a Ritz-Carlton, St. Regis or similar caliber that would have a 24-hour reception, a concierge, dining, valet parking, a pool and a fitness center, and an entertainment venue with at least 3,600 seats.

Be Aware: Stroke Prevention Month

BY MAUREEN DALY

As we go through Stroke Prevention Month, we should all be mindful about the threats of stroke.

More than 800,000 Americans will suffer a stroke this year. One in four of us will have a stroke during our lifetime.

People with conditions including COPD, Diabetes, Heart Disease and High Blood Pressure are predisposed to strokes. National Stroke Awareness Month and a great time to review the warning signs of a stroke and learn to "B.E.F.A.S.T."

"Be Fast" indicates Balance. Eyes. Face. Arm Speech and Time.

B- Balance Watch for sudden loss of balance.

E- Eyes Check for vision changes

F- Face Look for an uneven smile or droop in face

A- Arm Check for weakness in one arm

S- Speech Listen for slurred speech

T- Time Call 9-1-1 immediately

The American Stroke Associations recommends that if you experience any of the above listed symptoms that you call 9-1-1 immediately.

People can experience strokes at any age. It is better to go to the hospital and have a stroke ruled out than to leave one without treatment.

On average someone dies of a stroke every three- and one-half minutes in the United States. Stroke is one of the leading causes of long-term debilitation.

Strokes are the leading cause of preventable disability. When it comes to strokes: time matters.

Immediate action can prevent brain damage and long-term disability. For further information check out www.stroke.org.

Huntington's "Sugar Kelp" Experiment a Success

BY RUPERT DEEDES

Last fall, Garrett Chelius, the Deputy Director of Maritime for the Town of Huntington, decided to make a contribution to the emerging green economy by launching a pilot program to grow sugar kelp in Cold Spring Harbor.

There are three advantages to growing sugar kelp: It naturally removes harmful nitrogen from the water; it can be harvested and turned into a rich natural fertilizer; and it grows naturally, without any need for close attention and nurturing.

In late December 2022, a group organized by Chelius to implement the Sugar Kelp program started work: Seed lines were installed near the mouth of Cold Spring Harbor by Captain Mitch Kramer from TowBoatUS, with kelp seeds donated by Wendy Moore, Executive Director and Founder of Lazy Point Farms.

The kelp grew rapidly, and within a few weeks, bundles of kelp were stretching up to five feet below the seed lines.

Sugar kelp is a warm-water plant, and when the water temperature dropped to 55 degrees in April, the kelp was harvested, generating 250 pounds of fertilizer-ready material.

"We harvested hundreds of pounds of healthy kelp in late April!," stated Chelius. "Once it is dried and shredded, the town intends to use the kelp as organic fertilizer in its parks, and Huntington, Rotary, and CCE plan to scale up this effort modestly next winter with at least 10 lines strategically located throug Huntington..."

The kelp was dried and then grounded to powder, bagged, and distributed for free to groundskeepers at several Huntington parks and the Town's two golf courses. A few Huntington residents with green thumbs also received bags of dried kelp.

Hochul to Dump Illegal Migrants at SUNY Old Westbury

BY MARK DEMETROPOULOS

New York Governor Kathy Hochul (D-Buffalo) has sent inspectors to the SUNY Old Westbury campus to survey the student dormitories to house some of the 100,000-plus illegal migrants who have poured into the state. And NYS Senator Jack Martins (R-Westbury) is not happy about it.

Several local news stations have confirmed that the Hochul administration dispatched inspectors to the SUNY Old Westbury campus. The state is utilizing school dorms and athletic facilities as emergency housing centers for migrants.

"Migrants coming to Nassau County schools is a real possibility," stated Senator Martins. "Because New York declared itself a sanctuary state."

"Now communities like ours here in Nassau County and elsewhere in New York state, have to deal with the realities of migrants being shipped into our communities without the resources we need to deal with them," added Martins. "Without even knowing who they are. And quite frankly, potentially putting us all at risk."

SUNY confirmed that Hochul is looking to house illegal migrants at the SUNY schools. And if the illegal migrants are "in", then SUNY students are "out" - and will not have available dormitory housing.

Bus Unloading Migrants (courtesy Facebook)

Senator Jack Martins

"At Governor Hochul's direction, we are assessing whether there are SUNY resources available to help with the arrival of asylum seekers," stated a SUNY Press Spokesman.

Local governments on Long Island have been kept in the dark by Hochul about the date and number of migrants to be "dropped" on Long Island.

Hochul has not scheduled any community or town hall to inform the public or elected officials about the imminent influx of migrants coming in large numbers to inhabit their communities.

According to Hochul's office, "no official determination by the state has been made." However, the evidence appears clear that hundreds of migrants might soon be calling SUNY Old Westbury their "new home."

and members of the City Council, and of the public, Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton also attended.

Gaitley Stevenson-Mathews, former City Councilman and member of the Chamber of Commerce, said; "What a beautiful multi-generational event which celebrated the legacy of founder James Barry Donaldson, while also looking to the future as James's son steps into the role as proprietor of the business".

James said, "It's no easy feat to stay in business that long and in one community. My dad was a true positive role model for me. I'm honored to be in this community, and I know my dad was looking down smiling today. I can't thank everyone enough."

Leader Reporter Wins Poland's "Cross of Freedom & Solidarity"

BY NIALL FITZGERALD

President Andrzej Duda of Poland last week awarded North Shore Leader reporter Chris O'Neill one of Poland's highest honors - The Cross of Freedom and Solidarity.

Chris O'Neill first came to communist-occupied Poland in the fall 1981 as a "Junior Semester Abroad" exchange student to the Marie Curie University in Lublin. "I couldn't even speak good Polish then, but I felt a special bond with Poland and the Poles. The well-being of Poland has been on my heart ever since I first came," noted O'Neill.

Then the Soviet Union sent in its army - and declared martial law:

"On the night of Martial Law - Dec 13, 1981 - I remember how one blind student, who sometimes played the guitar in our dormitory, recognized by sound the types of military equipment that passed by our dormitory, including, Soviet T-34 tanks," recalled O'Neill. "Students barricaded themselves in the neighboring dormitory. I saw from my window how the special riot police troops, in a night action, stormed this dormitory, brutally beating students, smashing windows and, arrested some of the protesting students. My dormitory, which the Polish students were forced to evacuate, was then used as a barracks by these military forces."

"One morning I walked into the bathroom and in front of the mirror a riot policeman was shaving," recalled O'Neill. "I passed him to go to the toilet and discovered that the entire porcelain toilet was broken into hundreds of pieces. I asked him "what's this all about?" and he told me to talk to an officer. I did so. The officer said that "the students did it." Of course, a response worthy of laughter because there were only handful of us left, a few people from third-world countries and me from the US. I placed a handmade poster on the door of my room. I made it from pieces cut out of Time or Newsweek.

Teresa and Chris O'Neill

On this collage I had pasted nuclear missiles and a photo of President Reagan against the background of a cloud after a nuclear explosion with the caption "IS THIS WHAT YOU WANT?"

"My continued stay in the dormitory became untenable," added O'Neill. "And I was finally able to negotiate with the US Embassy for transport to Warsaw, and then a train to Vienna, out of the country."

Safe back in the United States - as a senior at Muhlenberg College in Pennsylvania - O'Neill could think of nothing so important as returning to Poland to help its fight for freedom. He applied for and was named a Fulbright Scholar to continue graduate studies at the Jagellonian University in Krakow, and later at the Catholic University of Lublin - a Catholic university in eastern Poland - and the only private university behind the Iron Curtain.

"My colleague Hubert Pietras was politically aware and active in the opposition," noted O'Neill. "He shared uncensored underground materials with me. He had to run through the 'beating gauntlet' of riot policeman after they 'pacified' the striking Lublin Car Repair Plant on December 17, 1981. It was he who in later years brought me into Lublin branch of the underground."

As a graduate student in Lublin in the mid-1980's, O'Neill joined the pro-democratic underground, particularly the LDP-N.

"I believe that, considering its level of publishing, technical prowess (printing), contacts (scope and quality), logistics and organization of distribution of the uncensored materials it produced, LDP-N surpassed all other underground organizations at that time in Lublin. It maintained a very high level of self-discipline in adhering to the rules of participating in the underground (secrecy, discreteness), and prepared, printed and distributed two books and 14 magazines (with numerous issues). Some publications were printed in more than 5,000 copies. In addition, they prepared and distributed more than 500,000 pieces of leaflets in six "leaflet actions" in the period 1984-1988."

"My involvement with the underground occurred in a variety of areas," added O'Neill. "Including material support in terms of the use of my car and apartment, and also translation, and in preparing the publication of a publication entitled 'Notatnik Polityczny' [Political Notebook]. I took an active part in organizing and conducting interviews for this publication both in the US and Poland, including with Zbigniew Brzezinski, the father of the current US ambassador to Poland.

"In the 1980s, I also delivered religious materials from the Pontifical Slovak College of St. Cyril and Methodius in Rome to the underground Catholic Church in what is now Slovakia. I also had the opportunity to support the anti-communist opposition in Cuba by directly providing its opposition activists with medicine, laptops and satellite phones in the early 2000s," concluded O'Neill.

The Cross of Freedom and Solidarity is Poland's highest honor for service to the nation, and recognizes exceptional self-sacrifice and dedication to the cause of Freedom in Poland.

In 2007, the government of Poland recognized O'Neill as a person who had been targeted by the Polish communist secret police, as a person wronged by the communist system. In 2020 the Polish government granted O'Neill the honored status of "Anti-communist Activist," the only non-Pole to be thus recognized.

"I am very moved by this award, but I am also aware of how many people did much more and how small my merits are compared to what they did," stated O'Neill. "Nevertheless, these honors are very important to me because they reflect the state of my soul, the state of my devotion to Poland. Poland has given me so much in my life and I don't think I will ever be able to repay this debt."

"What I treasure most is a small pin I received from "Irek" - an activist of the underground organization 'Fighting Solidarity'. As a young man he was beaten so badly by thugs from the communist police that he was diagnosed with traumatic epilepsy. He became an invalid and remains one to this day. Despite this experience, he still took part in demonstrations and was arrested 4 or 5 more times. Each time, out of stress, he would get an epileptic seizure on the floor of the police station house."

"I asked him if he was not afraid? His response was 'Of course I was afraid, but it was the right thing to do. I believe in God, Honor and in my country.' After our conversation, he took off his pin from his jacket lapel and pinned it on mine," recalled O'Neill. "These are the people that enabled Poland to regain its independence."

The North Shore Leader congratulates Chris on his outstanding achievement.

Gilbert & Sullivan's "Princess Ida" Coming to Smithtown

King Hildebrand (Ben Salers), and Prince Hilarion (Joseph Anthony Smith)

By CHRIS O'NEILL

One of Gilbert & Sullivan's most delightful operatic musicals "Princess Ida" will be coming to the Smithtown Theater in less than a month.

Long Islanders will get a chance to experience this wonderful tale of generational conflict, with lyrics penned by W.S. Gilbert and music written by Arthur Sullivan. The show first played in London's Savoy opera in 1884.

"Princess Ida" will open in Smithtown on June 17 at 8 p.m., at the Smithtown Performing Arts Center, 2 East Main Street, Smithtown. "It's free. Please come and bring the family," urged the Theater's Board member Aman Verma.

"On its surface a story of a prince, a princess, and an arranged marriage, Princess Ida is, deeper down, a story of young people trying to get past the mistakes and hatreds of their parents," stated Gayden Wren, the show's Director - and himself a longtime Gilbert and Sullivan enthusiast.

Wren, a 1979 graduate of Garden City High School, first became smitten with Gilbert & Sullivan in 1976, and has been a member of the Gilbert & Sullivan Light Opera Company of Long Island ever since.

He's also directed Gilbert & Sullivan productions in Manhattan, Connecticut, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas, and is the author of the book "A Most Ingenious Paradox: The Art of Gilbert & Sullivan," published by Oxford University Press in 2002.

The appeal of Gilbert & Sullivan, Wren said, lies not only in its "sparkling music, clever lyrics and beautiful dialogue," but also in its "universal human themes" which, like Shakespeare's plays, "has an enduring appeal to modern audiences," generations after the works were written. Princess Ida, he added, "is a great example of that thematic resonance."

The story is about young aristocrats caught up in their royal fathers' rivalry almost since they were born. Though they begin as enemies, as the opera progresses they begin to see themselves as mirrors of each other's struggle. Will they be able to transcend the future that seems to be their destiny?

"Princess Ida unlike any other Gilbert & Sullivan opera," according to Wren, "It's Shakespearean in its scope and its humor. It is a story of unique emotional power."

Admission is free. For further information, call (516) 619-7415 or visit www.gaslocoli.org.

Oyster Bay Historical "Rough Riders" Re-enactment

Theodore Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill in Oyster Bay

By PRIYA PERSAUD

Theodore Roosevelt and the "Rough Riders" will be saddling-up for one more ride through Oyster Bay.

In commemoration of the 125th Anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's 1st U.S. Volunteer Cavalry's formation, the Oyster Bay Town Board and Town Supervisor Joseph Saladino are partnering with the Friends of Sagamore Hill to host a historical re-enactment of the monumental event.

"What better way to celebrate the American spirit in advance of Independence Day than seeing history come alive as the Rough Riders and Theodore Roosevelt visit the place he called home, the hamlet of Oyster Bay," stated Saladino. "This is a great opportunity for residents of all ages to step back in time and learn more about the Rough Riders, their skills and how they helped advance America's profile around the globe."

The re-enactment will feature performances by the Boots and Saddles Productions and the Island Long Riders.

The Rough Riders were a volunteer unit of the United States Army that played an important role in the 1898 Spanish-American War. They are best remembered for their conduct during the Battle of San Juan Hill in Cuba, where they overwhelmed the Spanish troops and provided a victory to the United States and the Cuban revolutionaries whom the US was helping to achieve the independence of Cuba.

The Rough Riders were commanded by Colonel Leonard Wood, whose second-in-command was Theodore Roosevelt who had just resigned as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Their achievements in Cuba became legendary, and contributed to Roosevelt becoming President just four years later.

Next weekend, there will also be a Theodore Roosevelt Reprisor, Rough Riders on horses, saber performances by U.S. Cavalry Soldiers, and a mounted cowboy shooting by the Island Long Riders.

The historical commemoration will take place at the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Park in Oyster Bay on Saturday, June 3rd, 2023 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.
