Brian Nolan Resigns from Locust Valley School Board

BY NIALL FITZGERALD

Brian Nolan, the now-former President of the Locust Valley School Board has resigned as President, and from the Board.

Nolan was also removed as assistant principal of the Munsey Park Elementary School in Manhasset, and as Chief of the Locust Valley Fire Department

According to numerous local sources, Nolan resigned following a highly public personal dispute with an alleged paramour, Gabrielle Atkinson, who accused Nolan of getting her pregnant and then threatening her with the publication of revenge porn if she went public with news of the affair or pregnancy.

The Locust Valley School Board accepted Nolan's resignation, stating, "The Locust Valley Board of Education has accepted President Brian Nolan's resignation, effective immediately. We would like to thank Mr. Nolan for his dedication and service to the Locust Valley Central School District. Over the past eight years, he has committed countless hours not only as a trustee but serving as Board president. We wish him well in his future endeavors."

The Superintendent of the Locust

Valley School district, Dr. Kenneth Graham, also recently resigned, and will be taking a position in another district.

Nolan, who worked as an assistant principal in Munsey Park in Manhasset has also been "temporarily reassigned" to administrative duties in the Manhasset school district's offices.

Finally, the Locust Valley Fire Department removed Nolan as Fire Chief on February 21st, acknowledging that Nolan will continue as a volunteer on the fire department.

Numerous media postings accuse Nolan of extensive misconduct with female employees.

During the recent Covid pandemic, Nolan was a noted supporter of the forced child masking of school children.

Nolan voted with Governor Kathy Hochul's threats to Locust Valley, and he imposed forced masking on children. This despite the CDC and WHO already recommending against forced child masking, as a "danger" to the normal development of children.

Glen Cove to Deploy License Plate Cameras

BY NOLAN CLEARY

Glen Cove is set to introduce new license plate reading cameras around the city, to help police to identify vehicles of crime suspects.

But the new systems are not without controversy.

Glen Cove Mayor Pam Panzenbeck defends the introduction of the cameras citing the increase in burglaries and crime in New York, and the minimal impact to privacy on public streets.

"It is a valuable tool and a good resource for the police to help solve crimes," stated Panzenbeck.

But the ACLU opposes the cameras, claiming that the cameras are an infringement on privacy.

"License plate readers indiscriminately collect billions of location records nationwide and threaten to expose New Yorkers' daily lives to an entirely new level of police tracking and spying," stated Daniel Schwarz of the NY chapter of the ACLU. "People don't want to live in a surveillance state."

Panzenbeck disagreed, and arguing that street cameras and videos of cars on public streets already exist, stating "Our privacy is already invaded."

Cameras will be installed on poles at major intersections, and have solar panels installed within. 10 poles are set to include the cameras. Glen Cove has agreed to pay $53,500 for a contract lasting two years.

"It's just a good investigatory tool for us, should we have a serious crime," stated Glen Cove Police Chief William Whitton. "We will be able to see a picture of the vehicle along with the license plate, and then we would have to do good old-fashioned detective work to see if that car was actually involved."

Glen Cove is one of many Long Island municipalities to install license plate cameras. In accordance with the contract, all footage will be discarded within 30 days, though local police may continue to keep and store the footage.

The city recently signed a contract with the Atlanta-based Flock Group Inc. to produce the cameras.

Oyster Bay, Melville Home Prices Surge 17%

BY MAUREEN DALY

Defying the dire predictions of many economists and local realtors, 2022 saw significant increases in the value and sales prices of homes across the north shore – especially in Oyster Bay and Melville, which saw annual increases of over 17%.

Despite the mortgage rates more than doubling last year, making homes more expensive, the median home price in most Long Island communities continued to rise.

According to data on close to 200 communities compiled by the appraisal firm of Miller & Samuel, 2022 home prices increased, even though there were 15.5% fewer sales than during 2021.

The usual expectation is that while coming out of this boom, rates have doubled and homes should become more affordable, but that is not what is happening: In more than one third of Long Island communities, home prices increased by 10% compared to 2021 prices. In some communities like Bellport and Oyster Bay, prices increased by over 15%.

Real Estate agents believe that the limited number of houses for sale is the key factor keeping sellers in control and dissuading buyers. Buyers are more than frustrated. They can't find houses, and when they do they can't afford them or are out-bid.

New York Governor Kathy Hochul is promoting a plan to build 800,000 housing units across the state in order to "flood the market" and collapse the values of people's homes, making all housing in New York "more affordable."

The Hochul plan has faced resistance from local Republican officials, because of its potential to destroy the real estate market – reducing the value of most families' major asset – their home.

Hochul's plan has also been attacked by local communities for trying to lessen local control of community zoning, and by environmentalists for threatening to dump huge amounts of raw sewage into already overloaded sewer treatment facilities, which would cause huge environmental and groundwater damage.

Bayville Bridge Re-opening Delayed....Again

By THOMAS NOTHEL

The Bayville Bridge will continue to be closed with a now “new claimed reopening date” of “mid to late” April.

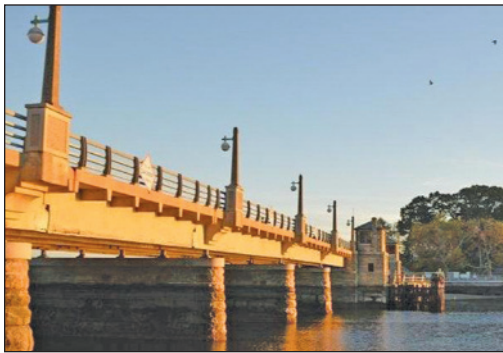

In letters to the Mayors of Bayville and Mill Neck, Nassau Commissioner of Public Works Ken Arnold advised about the delay.

“The County has been informed of an unforeseen site condition related to the structural work on the Bayville Bridge during the full closure,” wrote Arnold. “This issue was not apparent during the engineering phase of this project and was only discovered when certain components were disassembled”.

The Bayville Bridge was closed starting on February 14th. The previously unforeseen site condition was found after that work had begun.

Residents and local businesses are frustrated with this latest setback. One Bayville resident questioned why the issue was not found when the Bridge was inspected prior to the beginning of the project.

Work stopped on the Bridge when site condition issue was discovered, but the work has since restarted.

When the repair work on the newly discovered issue is finally completed, the regular repair work will restart on the Bridge. That final work is expected to take 22 more days.

Florida Gov Ron DeSantis on Long Island

By MARK DEMETROPOULOS

“Florida is where Woke-ism goes to die!” declared Florida Governor Ron DeSantis to a standing-room only crowd on Long Island.

Over seven hundred local Long Island residents came out in the rain to see and meet DeSantis who spoke last weekend at the Cradle of Aviation Museum. He was introduced by Nassau GOP Chairman Joe Cairo, County Executive Bruce Blakeman, and former Congressman Lee Zeldin.

DeSantis was on a “book tour” to promote his new book: The Courage to be Free: Florida's Blueprint for America.

Poignantly, cheerfully - and with good humor - DeSantis spoke for nearly an hour as he informed the crowd about how Florida has succeeded where New York's Democrats have failed, and how Florida is now the leading state for job creation and growth.

DeSantis touted his spectacular record in what he called “The Free State of Florida.”

He joked with Zeldin - his former colleague in the US Congress - stating, “Lee might very well have been Governor of New York, had fewer New York voters not migrated away to my home state of Florida.”

DeSantis described how the school system in Florida has greatly improved since he took office and how his administration push parental rights and choice for their children's education. He stated that in his state - parents of children will have the choice and the monetary funds do to decide what type of school their children will attend being either private, charter or public school.

He also discussed how Florida is enacting a Parents' Bill of Rights, to ensure that parents are protected against state governments, medical boards and school district bureaucrats who would dictate to parents how to raise their children.

DeSantis also stated that Doctors and other medical professionals who perform any “gender-reassigning” medical surgery or drug treatments on children, without parental consent, will lose their medical license.

DeSantis has challenged the Biden administration for not defending our Southern Border. He then discussed how he deployed the local US Coast Guard to protect the Florida Coast, stating “If the Biden administration fails to protect Florida, I will.”

After his talk, DeSantis met nearly every one of the attendees and autographed many of his books.

US Rep Nick LaLota to Chair Long Island Sound Caucus

By RUPERT DEEDES

The Long Island Sound Caucus, a bipartisan group of legislators, has chosen US Congressman Nick LaLota (R-Huntington) and Joe Courtney (D-Connecticut) as its new co-chairs.

The Caucus focuses on protecting the Long Island Sound, including conservation, water, fishing, transportation, and energy.

“I am proud to partner with my colleague from across the Sound, Congressman Courtney, to lead the bipartisan Long Island Sound Caucus,” stated LaLota. “Much has been accomplished before me, and yet much is left to be done. Protecting the Sound is not a partisan issue, it is an issue important to all Long Islanders.”

The Sound is facing many challenges - which it shares with other coastal coastal waters.

About two-thirds of the U.S. coastal areas and more than one-third of the nation's estuaries showed different levels of impairment caused by nutrient pollution. Nitrogen and phosphorus pollution in rivers, lakes, and streams flows downstream and ultimately enters bays and coastal waters.

These coastal ecosystems are often an important part of the local economy and nutrient pollution has a negative impact on commercial fishing, recreation, property values, tourism, and related businesses.

Experts note that bays and estuaries are more vulnerable to the effects of nutrient pollution because they are often shallow, narrow, or confined, which limits the opportunity for water to circulate oxygen to the plants and animals.

Long Island Sound is an estuary approximately 110 miles long (east to west) and 21 miles across at its widest point, and covers an area of 1320 square miles with 600 miles of coastline. It's valuable recreational and commercial uses make it one of the most important estuaries in the nation.

“The Sound is a vital part of Suffolk County's economy and our unique culture. I was proud to have an amendment unanimously pass the House this year to protect Long Island's waters from off-shore drilling,” added LaLota. “As co-chair of this caucus, I will continue that work to protect the Sound's water, fishing, and accessibility for generations to enjoy.”

Oyster Bay to Install “Floating Litter Traps”

By CHRIS O'NEILL

Oyster Bay will be deploying a new technology - Floating Litter Traps - to skim floating garbage and debris from the pristine waters of Oyster Bay, Cold Spring Harbor and Hempstead Harbor.

The first deployment will be in Hempstead Harbor off Tappan Beach in Glenwood Landing and Sea Cliff - and the Town is calling for “student volunteers” to help launch this pilot environmental program.

Supervisor Joseph Saladino and Councilwoman Laura Maier announced the installation of two “Collec’Thor” devices at Harry Tappen Marina that will clean the waters of Hempstead Harbor.

They were joined on the dock by several volunteers, as well as Council members Lou Imbroto and Vicky Walsh, and Town Clerk Rich LaMarca.

The waste skimmers represent the latest in marine debris technology and this will be their first use in the United States.

The “Collec’Thor” devices are installed on floating decks and use a small pump to draw in floating trash, specifically solid and liquid wastes such as plastic bottles, cigarette filters, butts and packaging, micro-plastics and hydrocarbon waste, including oils and fuels.

The device adjusts with the tide and according to Supervisor Saladino, “Collects up to 220 pounds of floating debris in just one cycle...”

Councilwoman Maier is calling for “Citizen Scientist volunteers” - high school and college students, as well as adults, to assist in determining the amount and type of debris collected.

All volunteers will receive a certificate for their efforts in protecting the community and its environment. ## WHEN LILACS LAST IN THE DOORYARD BLOOM'D

When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom'd,
And the great star early droop'd in the western sky in the night,
I mourn'd, and yet shall mourn with ever-returning spring.

Ever-returning spring, trinity sure to me
you bring,
Lilac blooming perennial and drooping star
in the west,
And thought of him I love.

O powerful western fallen star!
O shades of night—O moody, tearful night!
O great star disappear'd—O the black murk that hides the star!
O cruel hands that hold me powerless—
O helpless soul of me!
O harsh surrounding cloud that will not free my soul.

In the dooryard fronting an old farm-house near the white-wash'd palings, Stands the lilac-bush tall-growing with heart-shaped leaves of rich green,
With many a pointed blossom rising delicate, with the perfume strong I love,
With every leaf a miracle—and from this bush in the dooryard,
With delicate-color'd blossoms and heart-shaped leaves of rich green,
A sprig with its flower I break.

In the swamp in secluded recesses,
A shy and hidden bird is warbling a song.

Solitary the thrush,
The hermit withdrawn to himself, avoiding the settlements,
Sings by himself a song.

Song of the bleeding throat, Death's outlet song of life, (for well dear
brother I know,
If thou wast not granted to sing thou would'st surely die.)

HOCHUL DEC DAMAGES OUR ENVIRONMENT

To the Editor;

For the second year in a row the NYS Department of Environmental Conservation has neglected its responsibility to protect the state's wildlife resources and habitats by approving a new permit for Frank M. Flower & Sons to dredge clams from the uncertified waters of Mill Neck Creek and transfer them to certified waters in Oyster Bay for ultimate harvest.

With shellfish populations in the bay at critically low numbers, these clams need to remain where they are so they can help repopulate the harbor.

The initial permit granted last year allowed the operation to proceed for three months. The new permit, issued without advance notice to the Town of Oyster Bay and Friends of the Bay, which had specifically asked DEC to notify the organization of any action involving dredging in the creek, is in effect for six months from April 3 to October 10.

This will allow even more disturbance to the creek and its wildlife. Flower wasted no time taking advantage of the permit: two of its dredges were observed at work in the creek on April 3.

The uncertified waters of Mill Neck Creek serve as an undisturbed spawning sanctuary for shellfish that can help repopulate the bay. Disturbing the substrate by dredging could potentially have a grave impact on other areas of the bay system.

The substrate in Mill Neck Creek contains excessive silt which is likely to be resuspended and distributed to other areas of the bay, further compromising already stressed habitat.

And the dredging poses potential harm to other marine species living in the creek, both directly and indirectly through habitat damage, due to the disruptive nature of the equipment used.

FENCES, GUARDS AND GUNS IN AMERICAN SCHOOLS

To the Editor;

Eventually every school system in America will have to fence in every school and put an armed guard at every gate. Inside the school building cameras will have to be focused on doors and vulnerable glass windows and someone will have to monitor all the cameras. Some school systems will be slow on adding such security but lawsuits from teachers will eventually bring more stringent security into reality.

The Nashville shooting of three children and three adult workers was another heinous act carried out by a deranged person. Someone who commits such an act is beyond mentally ill, they have become mentally deranged. Sadly, the individual waited too long to get psychological help.

I don't want to mention the shooter's name because too much attention is given to people who kill innocent school teachers and children and even people in houses of worship. They prey on places that are typically gun-free zones filled with people who are often trapped with no way of escape. Newspapers and media sources should eliminate mentioning the name of such killers. As evil as it is, these mentally ill people see such acts as a way for them to get massive negative attention and to go out in what they perceive to be a moment of glory.

The idea of such security at all our schools is difficult to embrace but we have no choice. This adds to the financial challenges facing school systems. A fence is not aesthetically appealing. It looks third world but that's where we are in America. I've traveled to enough third world countries to have viewed walls around average homes, churches and schools. In Brazil many walls are erected around homes because of the high crime rate. Thieves are everywhere in Brazil. There are many wonderful people in Brazil but also plenty of thieves.

We didn't grow up with fences and walls. We don't want them today, but do we have a choice?

Many believe eliminating semi-automatic rifles is the answer. A killer with two six shooters could still kill someone and probably several in a classroom filled with children. If we outlaw guns in this country, then evil people will find a way to smuggle them into our country to other evil people who aren't concerned about keeping the law. Then, we will be defenseless and at their mercy. Fentanyl is illegal but over a 100,000 people died in 2022 from fentanyl and synthetic opioids.

I don't own a semi-automatic rifle but if China or Russia invades us, I want one. Actually, I want one for my wife, children and grandkids. We need at least a chance to defend ourselves.

By all means we must stop the mentally ill from having such weapons but that's hard to do when someone has no record of any psychotic episodes. There is nothing wrong with a waiting period for buying a gun and a background check.

Obviously private and religious schools are targets like any other school. Everyone is vulnerable.

Every school and Board of Education must be in serious planning stages for implementing the best security possible for our children. This is something that has never happened to most schools or churches in America but everyone is vulnerable. It only takes one such act next month or ten years from now to kill people and devastate a community.

Op-Ed: School Districts Bringing Porn and Racism into Schools

By STEVE LEVY

Contrary to the liberal media's headlines that the right is seeking to "Ban Books" in school libraries, in actuality, it's the radical Left that is seeking to ban the ability of parents to oversee and vet pornographic, gender transitioning, racially divisive, and Marxist materials from seeping into our children's curriculum.

A recent Newsday headline blared: "BOOK BAN ATTEMPTS HIT RECORD IN '22"

Book Bans? As representatives from the conservative group "Moms for Liberty" profoundly retorted: "Censorship is the banning of books. We say — write the book, print the book, sell the book. But if it does not have age-appropriate material for small school children, then don't put it in school."

If you think the Moms are exaggerating the level of inappropriate content on the shelves of many school libraries, just search the internet for the lists of some of the books of porn, race hatred, and gender dystopia of which parents never imagined are now in the schools.

An American citizen has the right to publish, sell and/or purchase porn, such as Hustler magazine. Should parents be labeled "book burners," if they raise objections to Hustler being available in a school library?

Many on the left get the concept of free speech very wrong. That even applies to First Lady Jill Biden. In a morning show interview about school libraries, she foolishly stated: "All books should be in the library. All books! This is America, we don't ban books."

First off, minors do not have access to every book or movie as do adults. That's why individuals under 18 years of age were never allowed into X-rated movie theaters.

But then there's the question of whether local school boards have the right to vet materials and prevent some objectionable books they deem age-inappropriate to be stocked on the shelves of a school. Certainly, they do. That is not a violation of the rights of the student.

Freedom of speech relates to the ability for an individual to write or say whatever they want, and to sell or preach it in the marketplace. But library content is controlled by the school board, just as the publisher of a newspaper decides which letters to the editor get in the paper. It's not the letter writers who have an absolute right to get their letter published in that particular paper.

The school board is directly accountable to the public, and it is the public that determines the curriculum in each state through their elected officials and the departments of education they elect. If the public believes that the department has gone too far by allowing critical race theory, pornography, and blatantly anti-American materials to permeate the curriculum, they have a right to voice their opinion and to seek change.

This is vitally important because a number of polls have shown just how insidious the left's indoctrination in our schools over the last several decades has become.

One poll shows that almost four out of ten Americans would not rise up to defend the United States if we were attacked by a foreign enemy. Another poll shows a majority of young people favor socialism over our present free market economy.

A third poll notes that race relations have actually soured since critical race theory has been injected into the classroom.

The survival of democratic nations is not preordained. As Ronald Reagan wisely noted: "Freedom is never more than one generation away from extinction."

It is our obligation as a democratic society to ensure that our children are raised with an understanding that democracies and free markets are essential to a superior way of life.

When we stop teaching these foundational concepts, we become a fractious nation that loses its cohesive identity. We were founded upon the concept E pluribus unum (from many, one). The new philosophy from the identity politics leftists is: From one, many.

Our children are becoming more segregated and tribalized. This leads to a lack of national unity that can be devastating, if we were to be attacked.

Marxists always had a plan to destroy our way of life. In the 1950's, Soviet Secretary Nikita Khrushchev noted:

"We do not have to invade the United States, we will destroy you from within. The United States will eventually fly the Communist red flag. ...The American people will hoist it themselves."

Marxists in the 1920's believed that the key to overthrowing the United States was through our educational system. They tried unsuccessfully to pit class against class through their lectures and institutional dogma. But now they have been finding success by dividing us by race rather than class. It's the reason that military recruitment is down 25% over the last several years.

This is why Moms For Liberty seeks to give parents more understanding and control over their children's curriculum.

The purveyors of Marxism, critical race theory, gender reassignment and sexual activism among our children see parents as the enemy of their master plans of indoctrination. They falsely claim that parents fighting back to protect their children are engaging in un-American censorship.

To the contrary, it is a battle to save the very foundations of our American Republic.

Security Lockdown at Huntington Town Hall

By RUPERT DEEDES

In the wake of security incidents at Huntington Town Hall, the town has limited the public's access, and beefed up security in and around the building.

Last week, Vincent DiBenedetto of East Meadow managed to enter the building and bypass security staff. He went to the town clerk's office, where he told the staff that he wanted to pick up a copy of his mother's death certificate.

DiBenedetto was using his video camera to record his exchanges with the staff and was filming other patrons and residents, which got people upset.

The town's Public Safety officers approached him, but he refused to stop filming, and shouted that he was exercising his "first amendment rights."

When the officers tried to block his filming, he became aggressive, and got into a shoving match with the town's Public Safety director.

One of the "Huntington Auditors" at Town Hall

He was later arrested by the Suffolk County police.

Two days later, a group of "First Amendment Auditors" came to Town Hall to continue the videotaping of the building and its employees. They arrived wearing horror masks - similar to those worn by the bank robbers in the 2010 movie "The Town."

They removed their horror masks before entering the building, but were aggressive and obnoxious towards the town employees and residents. Public Safety asked them to leave, and they finally left without anyone being arrested.

Public Safety has now implemented new security measures, including a barrier adjacent to the security desk near the entrance to the building, increasing the number of security guards at the building's entrance, and requiring that visitors be escorted to their destination.

Visitors will now also be "wanded" with a metal detection wand to ensure that no one enters Town Hall with a knife or firearm.

Town Supervisors Protest Hochul "Housing Plan"

Last week, local fire chiefs and water commissioners joined North Hempstead Town Supervisor Jennifer DeSena, Hempstead Supervisor Don Clavin, and Oyster Bay Supervisor Joe Saladino, to protest against NY Governor Kathy Hochul's ill-conceived mass "Housing Plan," that would overturn local and environmental rules to force-construct 800,000 units of new tract housing.

Joining the Supervisors were Albertson Water Commissioner Ed Scott, Oyster Bay Receiver of Taxes Jeff

Town Supervisors Protest Hochul "Housing Plan"

Pravato, and Oyster Bay Town Clerk Rich LaMarca.

The fire commissioners and water commissioners stated that the construction of mass tract housing will overwhelm the local sewer and water systems - and make communities more dangerous.

By THOMAS NOTHEL

Oyster Bay native and World Champion Wrestler Maxwell Jacob Friedman "MJF" was awarded the "Key to the Town" last Monday by Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Saladino and members of the Town Board.

The Town also proclaimed April 3, 2023 as "Maxwell Jacob Friedman Day" in the Town of Oyster Bay. Friedman was particularly honored for his charitable endeavors.

"We are proud to recognize All Elite Wrestling Champion Maxwell Jacob Friedman for his charitable efforts to combat anti-Semitism and end Jew-hate around the world," stated Saladino. "MJF has demonstrated unwavering determination, skill and showmanship in becoming the AEW Champion, where his prowess in the ring, and his undeniable charisma, have made him a professional wrestling icon and one of the biggest box office draws in the sport."

MJF is a Plainview-Old Bethpage JFK High School graduate, and currently resides in Glen Cove. He is proud of his hometown roots in the Town of Oyster Bay, and regularly speaks against anti-Semitism.

"We are so proud of him and the charitable work he does outside the ring," added Saladino. "Go get'em Champ!"

His local fans were able to see Friedman wrestle in person, when he was in the Wrestling Ring last Wednesday as the AEW held its Dynamite television program at the UBS arena in Elmont, New York. It was the first New York area AEW Wrestling event of 2023.

Honoring a Courageous Woman

By VICTORIA CROSBY

March is women's history month and Nassau County Legislator Delia DeRiggi-Whitton honored Corrine Kaufmann for her work in helping to prevent deaths from Fentanyl.

In November of 2022 Corrine's granddaughter, Page Gibbons, who had just celebrated her birthday a few days prior, died from an accidental overdose of Fentanyl. Since that time Corrine Kaufmann has channeled her grief into action, by advocating for Narcan to be available to the nurses in middle and high schools throughout the county, and for fentanyl test strips to be made available. Delia presented Corrine with a citation and said, "Corrine is making such a difference and it is our privilege to recognize her as a Women's History Month Trailblazer."

Overdose from Fentanyl has become an epidemic in this country, and Nassau County has seen many deaths from its use. According to authorities in Nassau County in 2022 there were at least 356 overdose deaths, and other suspected fentanyl deaths not yet confirmed by the coroner. This was an increase from previous years and each year the number grows. Counterfeit drugs have been laced with it and unsuspecting people take it. Drug addiction knows no bounds, it affects all ages, socio-economic status, and ethnicities. Street drugs may contain deadly amounts of fentanyl unknown to the user. Perhaps when these lifesaving items become available to the public, these numbers would decrease, not increase.

There are several worthwhile documentaries on TV. "All The Beauty and the Bloodshed," is on HBO and is about the opioid pandemic, "Poisoned," on Hulu is about the Fentanyl crisis.

Obituaries

ANDERSEN, Jean Evelyn, passed away at her home in Centre Island, Oyster Bay, New York, on March 6th, just a few days before her 87th birthday, after an illness that lasted more than a decade. Jean is survived by her brother, Harold W. Andersen, MD, and his wife Shirley R. Andersen, MD – of Chapel Hill, NC, and Laurel Hollow, NY – and her nieces and nephew: Lauren Andersen, William Andersen, MD, Elizabeth Andersen, and Caroline Andersen Tsekerides. She was blessed with nine grandnieces and grandnephews, aged 10 to 29, who live in Cold Spring Harbor, Chapel Hill, and Berlin, Germany.

Jean was born in Brooklyn and grew up in Bayside, Roslyn Estates, and Manhasset, the younger child of businessman Harold Andersen, Sr., and homemaker Evelyn Nielsen. She graduated from Manhasset High School in 1953 and attended Wellesley College, graduating in 1957. She then studied psychology at Columbia University. Jean was an adventurous person who traveled widely in her chosen career – helping reduce global childhood malnutrition. She worked in many countries, but the bulk of her efforts were in Thailand and the Philippines. She developed an enduring fondness for the cultures of these countries.

Jean never married. She enjoyed a high-profile career, reporting to board level of the Coca-Cola Company. Jean spearheaded programs called Nutribus and Nutripak, sponsored by Coca-Cola. The buses would travel to remote areas distributing food, and teaching about nutrition. Jean was very serious about her work, but she also had a sense of humor, and loved a well-timed joke.

In her spare time, Jean loved to sail. She owned many boats over the years, but became a fan of her Ideal 18 because it was light, and easy for two people to sail. She participated in Ladies' Sailing at Seawanhaka Yacht Club, and raced all over Long Island Sound. She enjoyed teaching sailing skills and sharing her technical knowledge about sailing.

Jean wintered annually in Naples, Florida, and became a docent at the Baker Art museum. She enjoyed researching each new exhibition and sharing her knowledge with schoolchildren and museum patrons. Her illness interrupted her attempt at writing a book on fine art printmaking.

Jean was an amazingly hopeful and positive person. She fought hard against her Parkinson's Disease, although the illness gradually robbed her of her mobility and her memory.

A memorial service will be held at a later date. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Jean's preferred charity: The Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research. It is imperative that a cure be found.

This was the first in-person LYNP project due to the pandemic, as prior events were virtual.

Over one hundred people attended in their 80s attire while all the iconic albums of the era were recreated. More than $11,000 was raised, and the winner of the 50/50 raffle, Danielle Nowak, very generously donated her portion back to LYNP.

LYNP was created in 2020 by Jaime Teich as a non-political registered 501c3 grassroots nonprofit, that creates opportunities that connect community. The organization began by helping address the needs of those facing financial hardships during the pandemic.

Oyster Bay Students Present "Bye Bye Birdie"

Oyster Bay-East Norwich students from Oyster Bay High School shined on stage from March 10-12 during their production of "Bye Bye Birdie." The production was directed and choreographed by Teriann Chiappardi and took place in the Oyster Bay Performing Arts Center at the high school.

The talented cast took audiences back in time to the late 1950s as they told the story of Kim MacAfee, played by OBHS student Brooklyn Matt, her family and her small Ohio town that gets rocked when teen idol Conrad Birdie, played by OBHS student Marco L. Vlacich, comes to town. Birdie is about to be drafted into the Army and arrives to town for a farewell television performance where he will kiss MacAfee, one of his biggest fans. The students kept audiences laughing and fully entertained with high energy musical numbers and interesting characters.

Oyster Bay High School's own student-musicians provided the music under the direction of Matthew Sisia and members of the school's Baymen Backstage Club, led by teacher Alexander Dollin, provided the lighting and sound design. In addition, the production's cast and crew built and painted the show's set from scratch and did a wonderful job incorporating it into the story.
